Benefit Spending Accounts

Your Benefit Spending Account provides easy access to YOUR tax-free dollars for qualifying expenses and may increase the amount of your take-home pay.

Luminare Health administers your healthcare spending accounts. For your convenience, we've ensured you can access your account information by visiting your health plan's website: myPromiseHealthPlan.com.

Your Own Personal Spending Account

Luminare Health offers two types of FSAs: a Medical Reimbursement Account and a Dependent Care Account. With either FSA, you "deposit" pre-tax dollars (contributions made before taxes are withheld from income), into an account through automatic payroll deductions. To pay for eligible expenses, you make "withdrawals" from the account. In the process, your disposable income may rise because FSA participation reduces your taxable income.

The following chart shows the significant savings that become apparent in a one-year period when using your Benefit Spending Account for out-of-pocket healthcare and dependent care expenses:

Medical Reimbursement Account

The Medical Reimbursement Account offers the option of a debit card that automatically deducts money from your FSA, or you can be reimbursed for medical expenses such as prescriptions and dental or vision expenses, as well as medical deductibles or co-insurance which are not covered by other healthcare benefits.

Deposits

Contributions to the account are made by automatic payroll deductions. Ask your employer about the maximum amount that you can contribute to this account.

Withdrawals and Reimbursement Options

Your Benefit Spending Account plan offers several easy options to use tax-free dollars in your Medical Reimbursement Account to pay for healthcare expenses. Please check with your employer to find out which options are available to you.

The first option is reimbursement by check. During enrollment, you can select an option giving you the ability to be automatically reimbursed for out-of-pocket expenses. Your Benefit Spending Account team will mail you a check for the eligible reimbursement amount.

The second option is reimbursement through direct deposit. If you choose this option, your Benefit Spending Account team would automatically send the reimbursement directly to your bank account for any out-of-pocket expenses incurred from an eligible medical expense.

If you do not select either of these options, or if you incur allowable expenses that do not appear on a claim, fill out a Request for Reimbursement Form, attach a receipt and send the documents to Luminare Health to recoup your payment.

Additional Information For Reimbursement

When submitting a form for reimbursement, you must include the Explanation of Benefits (EOB) from the administrator of your health benefits program showing that your claim has been considered for payment.

Contribution Tips

Right now, you can decide how much you want to contribute to an FSA up to the limit set by your employer. It's best to remain conservative with your contribution so that you do not deposit more money in an FSA than you will use. Remember, in most cases, any money left in the account at the end of the year will be forfeited.

When you are deciding how much you want to contribute to your FSA, here are some important points to consider:

- Set aside money for known expenses, such as orthodontia or vision expenses.
- Determine whether your employer offers a carry-over feature. This feature allows you to carry over up to $680 of your unused healthcare FSA account balance into the next plan year instead of “losing it.” The carry-over amount is determined after all expenses have been reimbursed for the applicable plan year (after the end of the plan’s run-out period). The FSA carry-over provision eliminates the mad scramble at the end of the year to spend remaining FSA funds.
- Remember that all FSAs are separate. If you have more than one FSA, money cannot be transferred from one to the other to pay expenses.
